“Can you get rid of the bill?” asked George Hatt. “Is that what you want?” the senator asked. The response was loud applause from the audience. Senator Ochoa Bogh’s solution was for AWAC to send her a formal request to rescind or repeal the bill, whichever the legislative council tells her is the proper procedure. Upton agreed to do so after consultation with their attorney. And, she told the audience, “We’re not pursuing it. I told you (she said to the audience) I would listen to your concerns.”
